

Inspiration Park, located in the City of Fresno, is the first of its kind in the city, and offers a range of sports and recreation areas constructed to be accessible by all users. Set on a sprawling area of eight acres, the park includes multiple play areas, a splash park, a new community building, as well as a universally accessible skate park, the first of its kind in the nation. The park was created by the city of Fresno, Fresno County, Resources of Independent Living, and The Boys and Girls Club of Fresno County.

Resources for Independence, Central Valley (RICV), a non-profit organization, has an agreement with the city to provide programs within the park and at the new community center, such as the Boys and Girls Club, that are geared towards youth, people with disabilities and seniors within the community. RICV will also provide the maintenance for the park and the community center. The park was created with partnerships by the city of Fresno, Fresno County, Resources of Independent Living, and The Boys and Girls Club of Fresno County.
